To Review Policy After Arab Riots

Special to The New York Times TEL AVIV, April 4-The Israeli Cabinet endorsed today police action against rioting Israeli Arabs in Galilee last week, but also decided to reexamine Israel's policy toward its Arab citizens. The ostensible pretext for the violent disturbances on March 30 had been opposition to a Government plan to ex-propriate lands in Galilee for a development program that would mostly benefit Jews. Ibe riots left at least five Arabs dead and about 70 people injured.

Most observers believed, however, that the outbreaks reflected Arab frustration over not enjoying the same advan-tages in Israel as Jews.

tages in Israel as Jews. Reporters were told after the Cabinet's weekly meeting today that proposals on the matter are to be prepared for presen-tation to the Cabinet. The gov-erning Labor Party has before it proposals by its Arab affairs department that call for em-ploying Israeli Arabs in public institutions and their full inte-gration into the life of the country and the party.

Curlew Measures Upheld Meanwhile, the Cabiner, after hearing a report by the Inspec-tor General of the Police, Shaul Rosolio, said today that it rec-ognized that the armed forces had op: ned fire only after lives had been endangered by the violent demonstrations. The Cabinet also found that meas-ures to enforce curfews in some villages and to restore order bad not exceeded the necessary minimum. Ministers also expressed grat.

ification that tens of thousands of Arab workers had spurned a strike call and turned up 22 their jobs last wiek. The minis ters also noted that most Arab elected authorities had worked to maintain order. Meanwhile, the police said that 200 of the 300 Arabs detained after the rioting had been released after questioning. The interrogation of the rest continues.

So will the boys at the Board Meeting. So will your toughest client, "Charlie the Crank."

Because when you wear this one, you'll be telling the world you're strictly up to the minute. First, it's a three-piece suit. (Vests are very important right this minute.) And it has a faintly European flair: higher arm-holes and a gently suppressed waist. But with soft shoulders to flatter an American man's figure.

> And it's most important that you note the three-button coat. This is the slimming, smooth, silhouette news of the season.

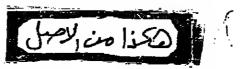

Even the fabric is au courant, a fine gabardine in the very shade of fan that's big in Europe right now. Our blend is 65% polyester and 35% wool, which means you'll have spring in your step all summer long.

Now, don't think you can saunter into just any store and find this kind of good looking luxury. It's only at Altman's made exclusively for us by H. Freeman and Son, the ninety year old firm that's justly renowned for fine tailoring and excellent fit.

Our new suit will cost you 270.00, but you know what will . : never happen to you when you wear it? You'll never look over your shoulder and find there's nobody there but you when the office boy says "Psst, here comes the old man."

"An Englishman's first duty in life is to his tailor; what the second is, nobody has yet discovered."

-OscarWilde

Next to Queen and country, nothing is more precious to the English than getting dressed.

And no place shoulders this responsibility more proudly than Barney's English Room. The single largest colony of British fashion on this side of the Atlantic.

Here you'll find all the time-honored names in British tailoring. Kilgour, French and Stanbury, clothiers to British royalty, are represented in majestic proportions. As well as the complete collections of Burberrys, Rodex, Aquascutum and Daks.

All with their timeliest interpretations of the great classics:

The proper brass-buttoned blazer in traditional navy and brown. And now in untraditional steel blue.

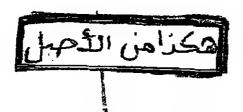

Suits inspired by the classic hacking jacket from Kilgour, French and Stanbury. In a spring palette of pastels.

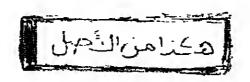

Trousers by Burberrys in true cotton poplin, suggesting the ones worn by British officers. And Burberrys most elegant spring suit in truly lightweight corduroy.

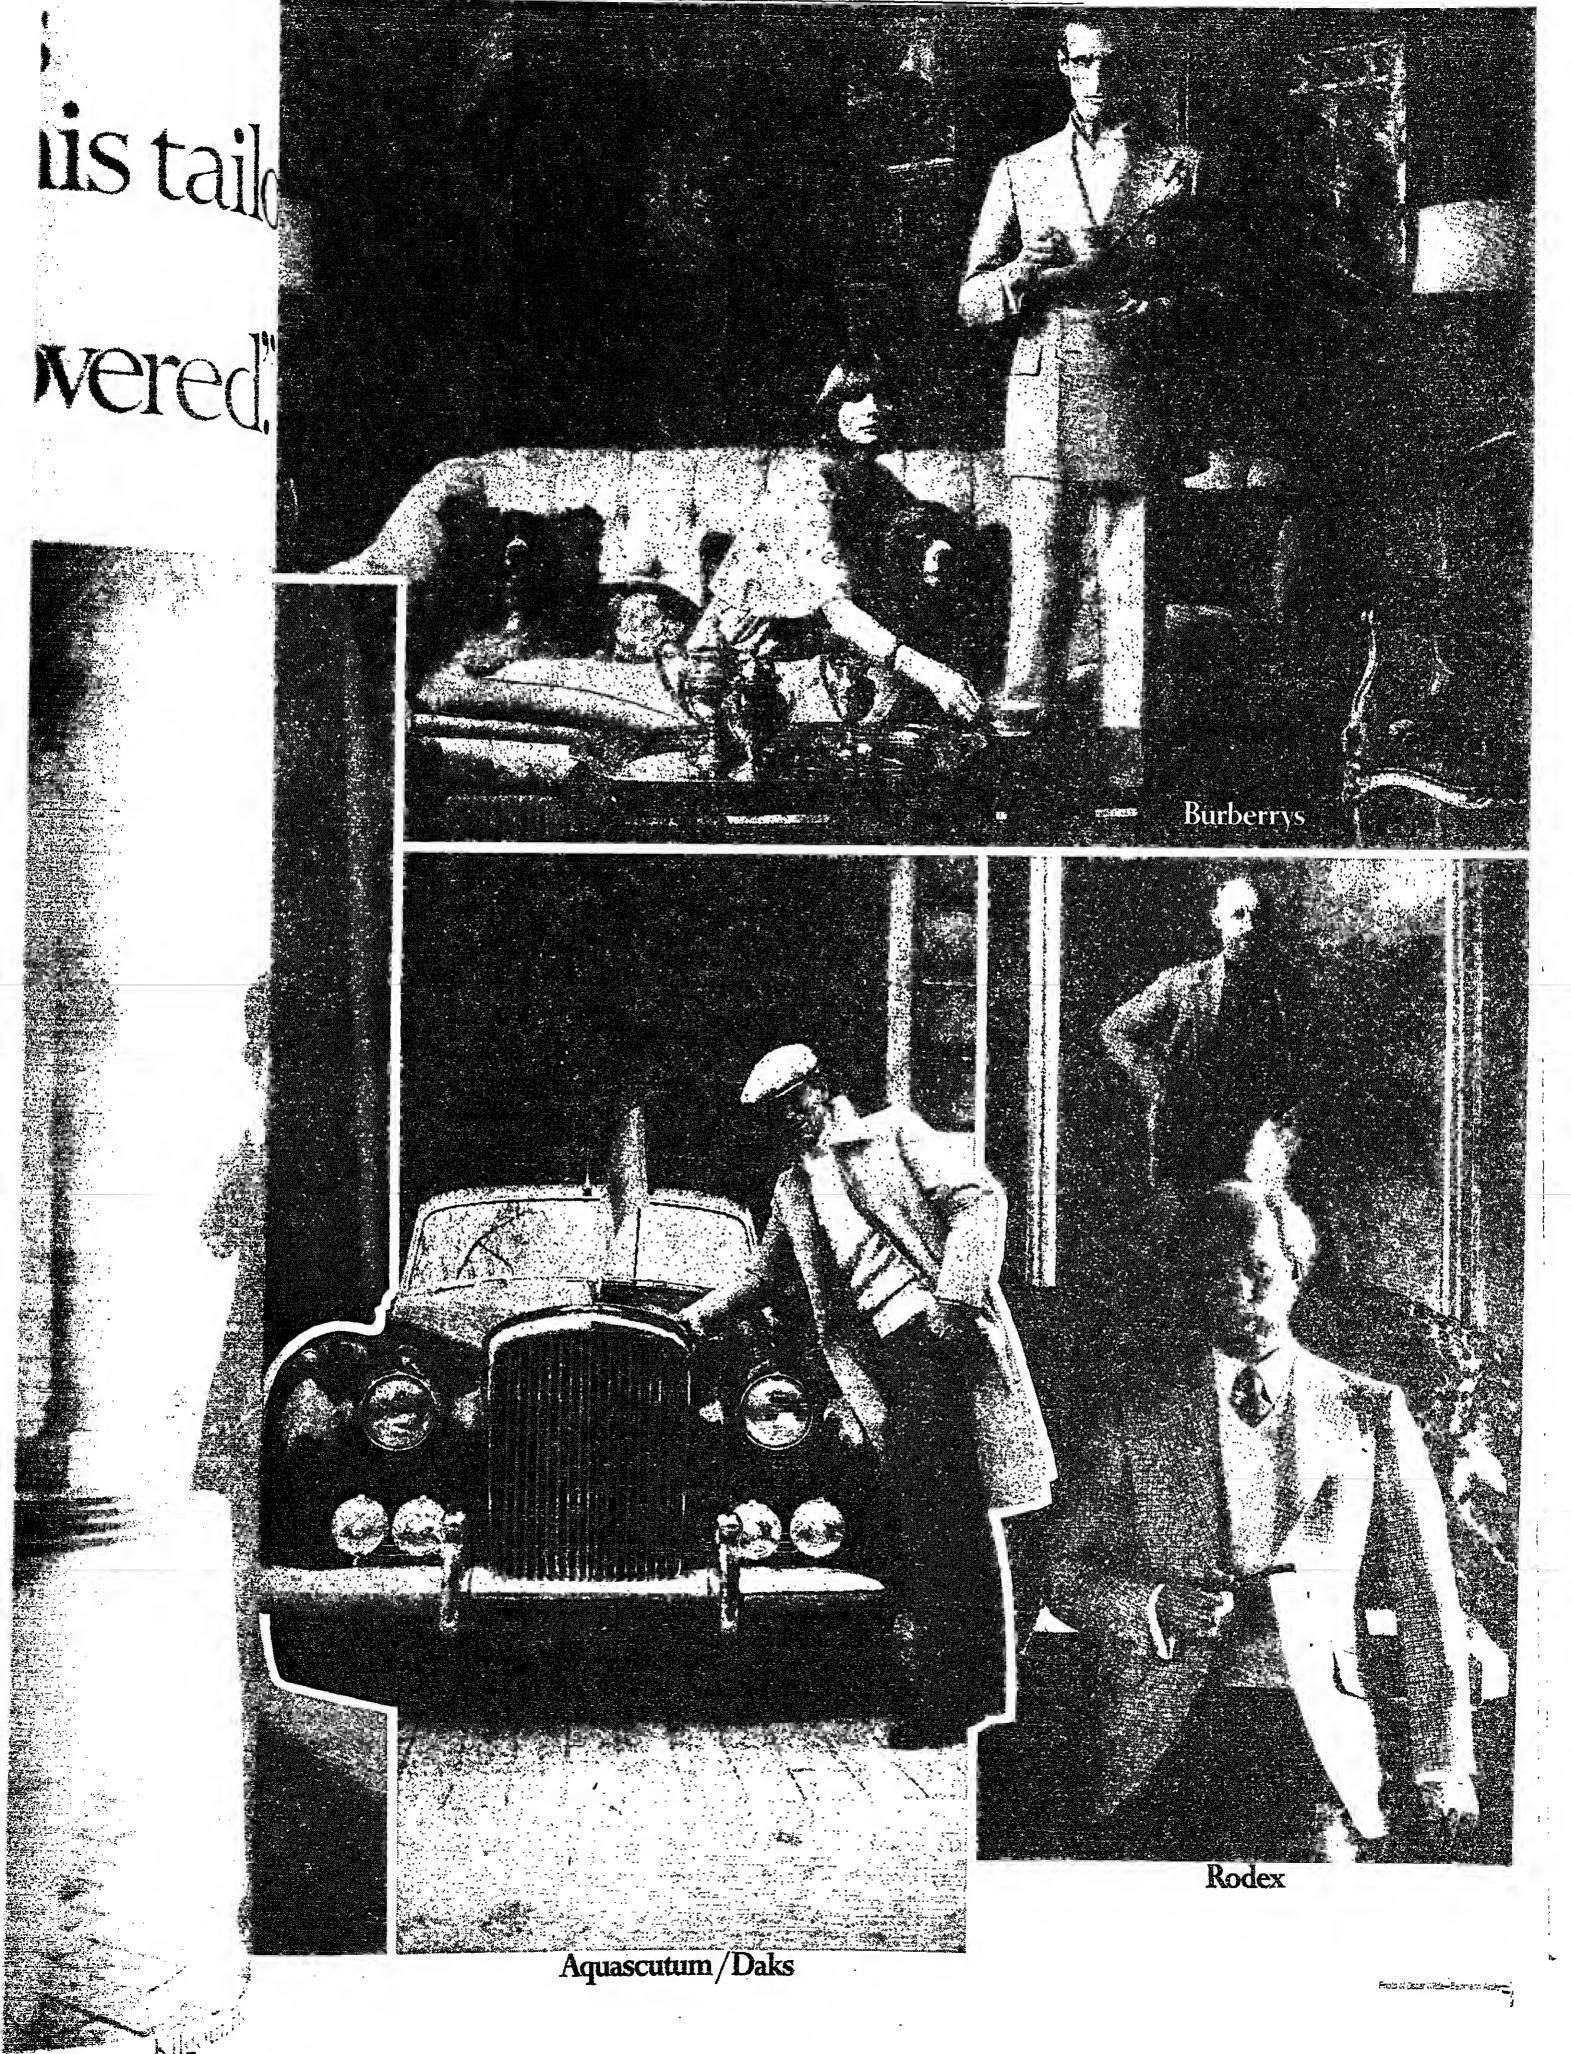

All in all, spring in Barney's English Room would make Oscar Wilde himself proud. Because when it comes to upholding the English tradition in fashion, we know the importance of being earnest.

Barney's English Room

7th Avenue and 17th Street. Open 9 AM to 9:30 PM. Free parking. We honor the American Express Card, Master Charge and BankAmericard. And, of course, your Barney's Card.

phy. Underlying the discussion are the questions: Is Mr. Kiss-inger too gloomy and pessimis-tic to chart American foreign policy? Or are his intellectual insights just what are needed to avoid the tragedies that bave befallen other societies in the past? It is something of a bizarre debate since it is unlikely that either Mr. Reagan or Mr. Ford has examined in detail Mr. Kishas examined in detail Mr. Als-singer's philosophy of history. And while the debate is poten-tially an intriguing one, for the moment, it has unfortunately been narrowed to the question whether Mr. Kissinger in 1970 made a specific statement to Adm. Elnio R. ## Quotations From Kissinger on His World View 1950 Life involves suffering and transitoriness. No person can choose his age or the condition of his time. The past may rob the present of much joy and much mystery. The generation of Buchenwald and the Siberian labor camps cannot talk with the same optimism as its fathers. The bliss of Dante bas been lost in our civilization. But this merely describes a fact of decline and not its necessity. Man's existence is as transcendental a fact as the vio-lence of history. Man's actions testify to his aspirations which stem from an attitude of the soul, not an evalu-ation of conditions. To be sure these may be tired times. But we cannot require immortality as the price for giving meaning to life. The experience of freedom enables us to rise beyond the suffering of the past and the finistra-tions of history. In this spirituality resides bummity'a essence, the unique which each man imparts to the precessity of his life, the self-transcendence which gives part these is at Harvard College: "The Meaning of History: Reflections on Spengler, Toynbee and Kant

The statesman is therefore like one of the heroes in classical drama who has had a vision of the future but who cannot transmit it directly to his fellow-men and who cannot validate its "truth." Nations learn only by experience; they "know" only when it is too late to act. But statesmen must act as if their intuition were already experience, as if their aspiration were truth. It is for experience, as if their aspiration were truth. It is for this reason that statesmeo often share the fate of prophets, that they are without honor in their own country, that they always bave a difficult task in legiti-mitizing their programmes domestically, and that their greatness is usually apparent only in retrospect when their intuition has become experience. The statesman must therefore be an educator; he must bridge the gap between a people's experience and his vision between between a people's experience and his vision, between a nation's tradition and its future.—"A World Restored: Metternich, Castlereagh and the Problems of Peace 1812-1822."

Oct. 12, 1970

This Administration came into office at what I am sure in retrospect will appear as one of the great transi-tional periods in American foreign policy. These periods do not always coincide with the announcement of them. In the early 1960's there were many who thought that a tremendous new change had come across American foreign policy. But I suspect that in retrospect that will appear as the last flowering of the period which we usbered in by the Marshall Plan as a more energy application of the principle that unless the United Stat did everything around the world at every moment: time it would not be done at all. . It was not u Administration which said, "We will pay any price; we will bear any burdens? will meet any hardship: we will support any friend; will fight any foe to achieve"—I forgot what the en rbetoric was—"the survival of liberty." And I don't i this as a criticism. I say this analytically, to point i the tremendous change that has occurred in the sir ture of international relations.—Press briefing.

The universal expectation of our peop the foundation of our political institutions, and the sumption underlying the evolving structures of peace all based on the belief that this growth will continue. But will it? The increasingly open and coopera global economic system that we have come to take granted is now under unprecedented attack. If the opportunity is min we shall live in a world of chaos and danger. If realized we will have entered an era of peace and ress and justice. But we can realize our hopes only united people. committed delegates. The Republican majority in he Senate, however, was squeamish about the reform oc-curring just this year, with the Reagan insurgency threatening to embarrass Mr. Ford in some districts. districts. So in what observers viewed as a classic cose of killing a bill without actually appearing to do so, the Senate Elections Committee chairman, John D. Calandra, Republican of the Bronx, amended the bill to include the abolition of New York City's mayoralty runoff, a practice affecting the city Democrats and one favored by both regular and reform members of that party.

The Senate passed the amended bill and sent it back to the Assembly with, it is widely believed, the full knowl-edge that the Democratic majority there would oot pass it. At that point the final comcomise was reached by As-emblyman Miller and Senator Calandra. The hill was amended yet again to apply to this year's primary only, and it tied the question of whether or not a Presidential candidate's name should be listed with his pledged delegates to the rec-ommendations of each party's ules. As it happened, the Democratic Party rules urge the in-clusion of the candidates names on primary ballots; the Republican rules are sileot on the issue.

Both houses then passed the bill, although not without some grumbling from the Democrats. Mr. Carey, faced with the final lyersion of the reform on his desk, and despite whatever mis-

Because smoking a cigarette can be one of those rare and pleasurable private moments.

And the chances are you don't want to give up any of that.

Which brings us to Vantage.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who don't entertain the idea of giving up cigarettes because they find cigarettes too entertaining.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who have come to realize that most cigarettes that give them the flavor they want also give them a lot of the 'tar' and the nicotine that they may not want.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who've found that most low 'tar' cigarettes don't give them anything at all.

The thing that makes Vantage special is that its filter is based on a new design concept that gives smokers the flavor of a full-flavor cigarette without anywhere near the 'tar' and nicotine. VANTAGE

Indeed, by the time Collier and Horowitz re finished with "The Brothers," you get the feeling that it was all they could do to resist writing outright demonography, that it was only by gritting their teeth that they kept from blaming the Rockefellers for all the world'a present troubles.

Yet the tension created hy the authors' Yet the tension created hy the authors' determination to remain neutral is perhaps what is most interesting about their hing-raphy. For one thing, it enables us to see the family's history from the point of view of its fourth generation, the 21 young men and women (oot counting Nelsoo's two sons hy his marriage to Happy Murphy, or his son Michael, who died in 1961) known collectively as the Couring Ter this high collectively as the Cousins. For this hiog-raphy ultimately beloogs to the Cousins. Their particular personal problems are what the entire narrative has been leading up to (if ooe were to streamline the fam-ily'a history and apply to it the old quip about the husiness tycoon, one might say that in four generations the Rockefellers got oo, got honest, got honored and got analyzed). And the authors' view of the past finally coincides with that of the Cousins.

So by telling the worst of the third generation without ever slipping into outright condemnation, Collier and Horowitz make more poignant the Cousins's dilemma-a feeling of amhivalence toward their forebears that combines love with hate, respect with disrespect, pride with shame, and a desire to escape the family oame with a knowledge that escape can never really be accomplished. No wonder these people have had more than their share of troubles and psychoanalysts. A Respect for History

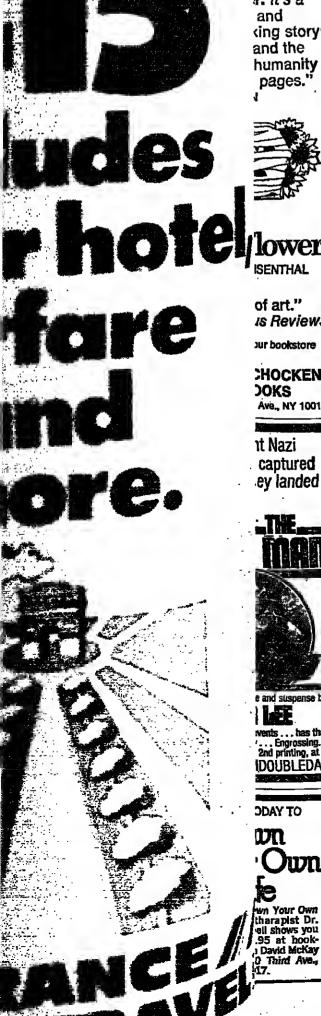

For another thing, Collier's and Horowitz's unwilliogness to condemn reveals a respect for history. Certainly the Rocke-feller past may seem evil from our present perspective. It is easy to agree with Steven Rockefeller's statement that "if we should in fact give mooey to other people who doo't have sufficient money to take care of their own needs, then it's also true that there is something wrong with the world as long as these people have such great needs when we have so much more than we need" and to wonder why oo Rocke-feller ever bothered to point out this simple truth before.

But the fact is no Rockefeller ever did perceive this before Steven's geoeration, nor did very many other Americans, for that matter. John D. Rockefeller Jr. won enormous respect for having papered over with charity the evil done hy his father in huilding the fortune. Something there is in the grain of American history that ad-mires not only huge giving but huge get-ting as well. It is only since the 1930's— that is, since the time of the fourth genera-tion of Rockefellers—that the justice of financial inequality has been quectioned in i bare during his Vice-Presi-rmation hearings: it was these who exposed the mercenary underlay the celebrated phi-was they who showed that with the pustice of financial inequality has been questioned in America on a broad popular scale. All of which may simply be a roundabout way of saying that "The Rockefellers" is in es-sence a history of us all.

Of Vital Employment and Moot Controls

To the Editor:

The March 19 Times editorial should be applauded for its qualified support of the Humphrey-Hawkins "Full Employment and Balanced Growth" bill, But I question its criticism of "excluding any provisions for price-wage controls even on a standby basis" and ascribing this to "Big Labor" alone wheo many others with large experience and analytical ability favor this exclusion.

There is cause for reasoned debate as to whether the U.S. economy, with or without full employment and whether moving up or down or sideways, needs permanent price-wage controls or the equivalent. But there is no substantial empirical evidence in this century supporting the thesis that concerted expansionary policies designed to reduca unemployment to 3 percent within four years of enactmant of Humphrey-Hawkins would involve more inflationary pressures than would result without that measure and with higher unused resources in the years ahead. I have written books, articles, and letters (some in The Times) examining the evidence in circumspect detail, and not a single well-known economist has offered cootrary evideoce, although some bave cootinued to ragurgitate theories of a "trade-off" between unemployment and inflatioo which exists only in their minds. What Price a Birthday Gift? To the Editor:

The suggestion in your March 26 editorial that American opera lovers help finance the visit of La Scala because the Italians have problems with their currency is hard to grasp.

The visit of La Scala was meant to be a gesture to bonor our 200th anoiversary. It was meant to be a birthday present from Italy to the U.S.A. Since when are recipients of international honors expected to pay for them?

Our Biceotennial festivities are being marred by several countries who, like Italy, turn out to give lip service to sbariog art treasures with us if we pay for the sharing.

more inflation during the most severe downturn since the 1930's than during any period when we were moving toward or cear full employment.

Thus, it was in my view a wise decisioo hy the Congressional sponsors of Humphrey-Hawkins, seeking widespread public support, that they did not fall into the trap of asking the public to accept the cootrols which so many do oot like in order to move toward the full employment we all need, especially in that the bill contains many practical measures to restrain inflation. Further, I have estimated that the bill, if enacted, would result during 1977-1980 in about 900 billion 1975 dollars more of G.N.P., 17 million more man- and woman-years of employment, and consequently about 250 billioo more of public revenues for devotion to meeting high-priority needs, than would result from even "optimistic" projections of current national policies and programs. The Times is profoundly correct in its intimatioo that the bill would bring beoefits immensely outweighing any shaky assumptions that marginally more inflation might result. LEON H. KEYSERLING

Shoppers' Right to Know To the Editor.

It is ironic that on the same page of editorials (March 20) on which The Times attacks the oew consumer protection regulation adopted by Nassau and Suffolk Counties it also defeods the people's "Right to Know" with regard to the C.L.A.

The consumer's right to know is precisely the issue at stake in the U.P.C.-price removal controversy. The requirement that supermarkets continue to mark prices (as they oow do) is clearly not an attack on the automatioo of checkout procedures but rather an accommodation to it that simultaneously protects the rights of those whom the supermarkets purport to serve-their customers.

The item-pricing regulation waspassed in response to bundreds of letters and appeals from consumers, petitions listing some 2,500 names (mostly senior citizens) and a record turnout at public hearings. The word was overwhelming, Shoppers, struggling to preserve their food dollars, want to know the prices so they can compare and economize within the store, add up purchases as they go and check up on the accuracy of the prices in the computer. The unitpricing shelf signs now in use are so poorly maintained that in no way can they substitute for a price stamped on the item. Since supermarkets now mark prices

The Proliferators

For almost a year, arrangements to export, to Brazil and Pakistan respectively, West German and French technology for making nuclear explosives have been proceeding behind a smokescreen of pious pledges to ocoproliferation. Public opinion, Parliaments and even the Cabinets of the two countries have been fed misleading information about the supposed "safeguards" imposed.

As this disastrous program has been pressed forward. creating dangers for the future of all humanity, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt has been able to escape serious questioning at bome on Bonn's sale to Brazil of a complete nuclear fuel cycle, something no exporting country has ever done before. The French Government has escaped serious challenge at home on a succession of "authorized" denials that the projected sale of plutonium reprocessing plants to South Korea and Pakistan involved any dangers-a diversionary maneuver that was exposed wheo Paris backed off from the South Korean sale after vigorous American protests.

In testimony before the Senate Government Operations Committee, Secretary Kissinger recently acknowl- · edged that French and West German refusal so far has blocked American proposals for a ban on export of plutonium reprocessing and uranium enrichment plants by the seven major nuclear supplier nations, including the Soviet Union, Britain, Canada and Japan. A oew agreement reached by the seven undoubtedly will improve iospection by the Vienna-hased International Atomic Energy Agency: but it is far from sufficient. Bonn and Paris have used the new agreement to support their pretense that the inspection arrangements now make it "safe" to export even such dangerous equipment as plutonium reprocessing plants.

The United States, Mr. Kissinger indicated, has pointed out to them that the so-called "safeguards" agreements providing for I.A.E.A. inspection could be unilaterally abrogated by Brazil and Pakistan. That is one reason why the United States for thirty years has refusedand still refuses-to export uranium enrichment and plutonium reprocessing equipment.

The break with this American policy in the Wast German-Brazil and France-Pakistan deals has led to inquiries by a half-dozen Congressional committees, which have refused to accept assertions that these cootracts can no longer be reversed even if they violate the spirit of the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty, which Bonn and Paris have promised to uphold.

The spread of plutonium reprocessing facilities and technology could confront the world with a dozen or more nations capable of producing weapons-grade plutonium for 3,000 Hiroshima-size bombs onnually hy the 1990's. The United States, which invented the bomb, has a special responsibility for heading off this evolution by bringing other exporting nations to agreement not to use the degradation of effective safeguards as "sweeteners" in commercial competition for big power reactor orders.

aod city agencies that exceptions cannot be made in keeping down the costs of government.

The dismissals were necessary in order to assure that the courts in New York City operated under an austerity budget. As part of a $13 million reduction in city financing for the courts, this sum may seem insignificaot. But economies consist of an accumulatioo of such cuts in various departments, based on a determination of what are absolutely essential services and programs. The court majority opinion recognized that "the condition of the public treasury was and is such as to leave oo alternative but to make drastic cuts" under authority of the Judiciary Law and Constitution.

Slipping

Despite unaccustomed praise from Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, who expressed "cautious optimism" that New York City can achieve its goal of a balanced budget by mid-1978. New Yorkers can take little comfort from testimony on their city's fiscal progress that was presented to the Senate Banking Committee this week.

United States Comptroller General Elmer Staats seriously guestioned whether the currect financial plan is realistic, citing such uncertain areas as welfare benefits, pension costs and a declining economy. Joel W. Harnett and Burton H. Marks, chairman and president respectively of the City Club, went further to warn that the city could go hankrupt unless the Federal Government imposed more stringent fiscal discipline. The two local critics call for budget cuts on the magnitude of $800 million annually, twice the rate indicated in the revised two-year plan.

In some respects, both the Comptroller General and the two City Club officials were unfair in their sweeping criticisms of City Hall's performance. Mr. Staats protested that the General Accounting Office which he beads has "not identified any effort to develop a comprehensive long-range analysis of New York City's economy." In fact, the Mayor's Temporary Commission on City Finances is charged with that task and has sought G.A.O. help in obtaining Federal support for econometric studies.

Messrs. Harnett and Marks give too little credit, in our view, to the efforts of a new team of top City Hall aides to overhaul the city's archaic accounting and management systems, a monumental task that could not be accomplished overnight under the best of conditions-which these are not.

Nevertheless, it is beyond dispute that the new financial plan, like the old, rests on shaky foundations. The credibility of the city's proposed new austerily measures has been further undermined by Deputy State Comptroller Sidney Schwartz's report that efforts to erasa $200 millioo from the hudget this year are "seriously slipping" and by the ominous implications of the transit settlement.

It should require no further warnings from Washington, where Senator Proximite has ruled out any extension of the Federal loan act, or from Albany to convince the Beame Administration that no matter how hard it is trying, it must try harder and begin to produce more persuasive results.

Issues '76: Cities

Although it lacks the drama of the arson and rioting that focused national attention on the plight of the cities during the 1960's, New York's battle to stave off bankruptcy illuminates a fundamental urban crisis in America that requires priority consideration in this Presidential year.

The fiscal Band-Aid which the Ford Administration has grudgingly applied to New York does not begin to treat basic economic and social problems which are at the root of New York's sickness - problems that afflict nearly every city in the country, particularly the older metropolitan centers of the Northeast and Middle West.

As New York's staggeriog budget gap continues to widen, despite punitive new taxes and service cuts, it is increasingly apparent that there is little hope for this city-or for many other cities-unless next November's Presidential election usbers in drastic changes in Federal policies.

Many of the problems that confront and threaten to overwhelm urban areas, such as persisting high levels of unemployment, soaring welfare costs and shrinking revenues, are by no means confined to cities. But these national problems and the social ills they breed have increasingly become concentrated in central cities which have become dumping grounds for the disadvantaged while more fortunate citizeos have fled to the suburbs.

Whatever the outcome of tomorrow's Presideotial primary in New York, the campaign already has produced positive results by compelling the priocipal cootenders to focus on the urban problems. Senator Jackson and Representative Udall have been, on the record, more actively responsive to urban needs than Governor Carter, while President Ford's and Governor Reagan's response has been, in our view, hopelessly inadequate.

The major areas of Federal responsibility where drastic revisions are needed include the following:

 Jobs—Cities bave been particularly hard hit by the prolonged recession and by Federal economic policies that have given low priority to the creation of jobs. The nation needs a new Federal commitment to the promise of full employment that was made by Cohgress thirty years ago, but never fulfilled.

In the meantime, such limited measures as the $6.2 billion countercyclical public works bill, which President Ford has vetoed, and the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, which the President would phase out, are desperately needed by New York and other cities to help balance their fiscal and social budgets.

· Health ond Welfore-An effective full-employment policy would alleviate but not eliminate the heavy welfare burden which currently accounts for one-third of New York City's $12 billion-plus expense budget. Othar local governments, urban and rural, also are acutely feeling the pinch of rising health and welfare costs-creating a growing constituency for reform-that should encourage candidates, and Congress, to come to grips with the urgeot necessity for full Federal funding of totally new approaches to the problems of helping the sick and oeedy.

• Revenue Sharing-The revenue sharing program has oo the whole proved to be a fairly effective means for applying Federal revenue resources to local needs. But as presently constituted, the program is more of a sop to the suburbs than to the concentrated populations of the inner cities where the need is greatest.

The program needs to be extended and to be strengthened to take into account differences in need and to increase citizen participation. Some reduction in bureaucratic cootrols also is desirable-but not to the poiot where the Federal Government abrogates all responsibility for seeing that the oeeds of the oeediest are met, as would be the case under President Ford's proposal to move to a blanket block grant system, abolishing all categorical grant programs.

Beyond these broader concerns there is need for fresh thinking in Washington about the role of the city itself in an urbanized society that still clings to the anti-city bias of its agrarian past. Americans hava not merely neglected their cities; they have actually fostered urban decline through Federal policies in such areas as housing, taxation and transportation that have encouraged the flight from the cities to chaotic suburban sprawl.

The next President will, we hope, be someone with the imagination and courage to re-examine all Federal policies and programs as they affect the changing urban environment and to institute orderly planning for a more rational, more just, and less wasteful distribution of people and resources. This country, as Felix Rohatyn has observed, "cannot continue half suburb and half slum."

Drug Program: 'The Cuts Are Too Deep'

To the Editor:

the drug treatment programs in New York City, Recently, the Legislature decreased N. Y. State drug abuse treatment money by 60 percent starting io April. Almost simultaneously Naw York City announced Its withdrawal of 75 percent of its funding of drug abuse. This included not only the dismantling of its large drug treatment agency, the Addiction Service Agency. hut also $10 million from programs rendering direct services to drug abusers,

The main losers will be the urban poor, tha disadvantaged and particularly the black-Hispanic minorities, who will be deprived of the treatment alternatives to street drug life-styles. Ten thousand to 15,000 patients now in treatment will be forced to fend for themselves. The other loser will be society in general. Addict-related crime will inevitably rise; also forecast is more addict caused anti-social bebavior, which may be particularly distressing in the schools. In addition there are the hidden costs: the addict is a beavy user of costly health care and criminal justice services. WILMINGTON, Ohio-Tve an eye for the minor ironies. Friends say this might be fatal. They are doiog advanced work in the major irooies. No matter, I say. Ecough for all, I myself live in three rooms, work small. I hear there are large topics in the world hut this could be hearsay.

I have heen a villager although now I'm a country man. I would still be a villager hut it iso't there anymore. It was removed so a lake could be built over it in order to save other villages downstream. This is a mioor irony hut it horders on a major ooe. Two streams came together underneath my village like a tuning fork, the village itself a single well-tuned oote between them. Sometimes I believe this. What the village bad, I think, was a kind form. My village also bad a chicken thief, several alcoholics, a miser, one or two coofirmed gossips, aod a number of rather earnest Christians. These visitations upon the human form may be considered not kind but that is so largely for those in the possession. The rest of us could usually escape because the form of the village allowed one to avoid surprises. In the world today, this may he a large virtue.

The village form has been around quite a while. It's still around hut it's been subverted. The shopping mall is modeled after the village. The communes were, also, but they were too romantic to succeed. The shopping mall, as perfectly realistic as a military base, will not fail. And, for that matter, neither will the military hase, which is modeled after another kind of village, the feudal estate. The commune and the military hase had too much in common, which helps explain why the commune failed. Senior Citizens' and the Lions Club are village forms. So is vegetarianism and transcendental meditation. The village itself failed not because

came ashamed of it. We wanted everyone to think we grew up in Boston. As soon as we were able we went there so we could write bome and our pareots could show the postmark to the neighbors. Americans have always heeo like this. Americans are people who either want to move, or they stay in Mantoon, Ill., and feel defensive. The Pilgrims were at Plymouth Rock four days before they began discussing how to get to Deover. Sometimes I think the size of the country did this to us. We were a people courted by sheer size, like a small man wooed by a large handsome wealthy woman. It went to our heads. We iocorporated size into ourselves as a virtue. Regard, for a moment, size. Who can, for instance, name the bantamweight champion of the world? Consider Texas, which we have been taught is not a place at all but a certain way of carrying one's self.

Americans bave always been overreachers. It has produced the best of our technology and the worst of ourselves. It answered our questions about getting oo, but oooe about our interior lives. The interior life is almost nonexistent now. It's an attic voice telling us our socks don't match

That's wby we've been revering Harry Truman lately, It's nothing much to do with Harry Truman, of course, but a notion about something called "plain talk." We admire this as nostalgia, an awful fact, because means we aren't hearing any ìt of it and don't expect to. But we still admire the notion of it. This is the notion of the sccurate human voice as endangered species.

We still admire the notion of the village, too. But most of us live in Cleveland. There is now a whole literature of the village life. It exists in publications like Mother Earth News, which is a periodical for people who feel up the creek without a parable. I take the Mother Earth News. Sometimes, when a new issue comes, I'm aware of heing titillated. There's somethiog a little prurient about it. It even has a centerfold. You can unfold it and learn all about sprouting. The first white man in my village was a military surveyor named Anderson. The first settlers were farmers. The village came of the sword and the plowshare heaten together. This produced the militant plowshare. In time, it resulted in the technology of orderly fields. Farmers declared they couldn't make their way oo anything less than a thousand acres, and to manage the new urban population we invented the ghetto.

Motion in the American life seemed. for a time, to satisfy. Now that we've been everywhere and done everything.

we're beginning to think otherwise. People are setting out to find something called "community" as though the American Automobile Associatioo had the way marked on its. lyrical maps. I'm skeptical of pilgrimages. They have a way of endowing motion and forgetting destinatioo.

When my village was heing demol-ished I walked through the disappearing bouses. They were in layers, There was wallpaper upoo wallpaper and pastel colors upoo that, and carpet over linoleum oo top of hardwood floors uoseen for a half century. This is motioo, too. The villagers were heing taught.

We saw the village as being a restricted place and we grew ashamed. We were taught that, also. But all the time we carried the restrictions ioside ourselves. We turned outward because the view was easier. Oo a clear day you could see forever or if not forever then at least past the going perceotage.

Americans never learned to make themselves eoough real moouments. My village's first settler was a man named Aaroo Jenkins. Wheo be died, he left the village a graveyard. That's all right because he wasn't here but a few years and no doubt felt pressed. Our sense of monuments has always been curious. Finally we chose large mooey as a monument and that notion cultivated our smallest instincts. And that's a major irony.

So we're looking at the village life as if it were consecrated, and that was our original mistake. We've always heen too free with consecration, laying it about in every public place as though it were a universal curreocy with the power of purchase upon a momeot's notice. I believe in village life simply because ooe must choose to be somewhere. And I choose, finally, against size: in the narrow life 1 can watch my flank.

'I Never Said That!

By William Safire

WASHINGTON-When is a quotation not a quotation? Here is a quick guide to past and present disputes about the art of quoting:

1. The accurate quote out of context. "I am the law!" said Mayor Frank Hague, imperious boss of Jersey City on Nov. 10, 1937.

Mayor Hague was trying to belp two boys under 18 go to work, as they wished, and fulfill their educational requirement by going to night school. When school officials claimed the law made that impossible, the Mayor quoted himself as replying: "Listen, here is the law: I am the law! Those boys go to work!"

.This was an example of what we would now call "a public official cutting through red tape to meet human needs"; but because Mayor Hague was surely an autocratic political boss, the words were taken out of context and used against him. Today, the attempt to belp a couple of poor youths is forgotten, and the line is always quoted es the American equivalent to Louis XIV's "I am the State."

2. The disputed quotation with identifiable source. Last week, Ronald Reagan quoted Henry Kissinger as saying "The day of the United States is past, and today is the day of the Soviet Union. My job as Secretary of State is to negotiate the most acceptable secood-hest position available."

Secretary Kissinger promptly issued a denial; Governor Reagan pointed to the direct quote in a book by Elmo Zumwait, former Chief of Naval Operations, who confirms that is what he beard from Mr. Kissinger's lips. Those who think oo American official would be so foolish as to say such a thing will believe the Secretary of State, while those familiar with Dr. Kissinger's recommendations that President Nixon read Oswald Spenglar's gloomladen "Decline of the West" will believe Admiral Zumwalt.

The point: When a source is cited, the public can make an informed fudgment in a dispute.

3. The disputed quotation with an anonymous but obvious source. In the new psychohistory by Woodward and Bernstein, Nixon's soo-in-law Edward Cox is quoted curiously, without quotation marks-as baving said on the telephone that the former President was suicidal and talking to the pictures on the White House walls, which neatly fitted the aothors' thesis that Mr. Nixon was deranged.

Mr. Cox angrily denies ever having said anything of the sort. No source is given by the writers, but the person on the other end of the line was Senator Robert Griffin, whose obvious cooperation earns him a Good Guy's role in the book.

والمعادية المحاوية والشبيد توجع والروا

In this case, Seoator Griffin cannot avoid comment for long, since silence is confirmation that the semi-quote was accurate. If the Senator should state that his recollection agrees wito Mr. Cox's, then the quoters will accuse him of being a diplomatic liarbut historians will dismiss this quotation, and much other unsourced material by the same writers, as schadenfreudian slips.

4. The undisputed quotation that turns out to be a phony. Marie Antoinette is the queen who is remembered for helping bring on the French Revolution with ber line of classic hauteur: "Let them eat cake." She never denied ber recommendation that they eat "de la brioche." But she was wronged by the quoters.

In his "Confessions," Jean-Jacques Rousseau wrote about "the thoughtless saying of a great princess, who, on being informed that the country people had no bread, replied 'Let them. eat cake."" But Rousseau wrote that in 1767, two years before Marie Antoinette ever set foot in Fraoce; obviously, the quotation was later unfairly hung on the wrong royal lady.

5. The phony quotation that immortalizes its disputer. Loogtime Republicans and burning-deck Loyalists are familiar with the heroic line of Count Camhronne-chief of Napoleon's "Old Guard"-at the Battle of Waterloo: "Tha Guard dies, but never surrenders."

Cambronne never said it; according to historian Edouard Fournier in 1859, a reporter named Rougemont cooked it up to add a little drama to his story: (What Cambronne did say was a short Freoch expletive later used frequently by Hemingway in his novels and to this day referred to as le mot Cambronne.)

The truthful count went to his grave stoutly denying he ever said anything about never surrendering. But in the city of Nantes a monument has been erected to him upoo which is proudly inscribed: "The Guard dies, but never surrenders." Were it not for that line, there would be no monument.

Wheo is a quotation not a quotation? When nobody can be found to come forward and say; "Here it is in writing," or "I heard it said with my own ears." Anything else is a quote within a quote, legitimate if so labeled, deceptive if not.

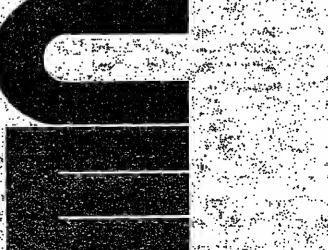

History has a way of separating what was really said from what was said was said. But a lot of good that does Frank ("I am the law") Hague and Marie ("Let them cat cake") Antoinette,

Announcing ConRa A better way to run a railroad.

On April 1, six struggling railroads became a single, more efficient railroad, stretching from Boston to St. Louis. Purpose: to give shippers first-class service and become a profitable company.

T'S GOING TO TAKE TIME. But we've got L the people, the money, and the will to make it work.

And we've got to make it work. A big chunk of America is counting on us.

Our 17,000 miles of track cover an area with 100 million people and 55 percent of America's manufacturing plants. Including major automobile plants. ConRail serves so much of the auto industry that if we stopped hauling freight even for one day, 26,000 auto workers would be thrown out of work.

In business to make a profit

Don't confuse us with Amtrak-a Government-subsidized company responsible for intercity passenger service.

ConRail is a for-profit company-prirate for lack of money. This slowed service and increased damage costs.

They had to absorb losses from their commuter lines. And also from unprofitable freight lines.

And, in some areas, they didn't have enough flexibility in assigning employees. As you'll see below, the legislation that ConRail can drop the service after 180 days.

Support from the unions

The unions want ConRail to succeed, and have already agreed to more flexibility in

The $2.1 billion we're getting from the Government (see right) comes as an investment that we are legally obligated to pay back.

We're in business to improve service and make a profit. But why should we succeed when the six railroads we took over went bankrupt?

created ConRail specifically attacks each of these major problems.

Billions to improve roadbeds and equipment

In creating ConRail, Congress authorized the purchase of $2.1 billion in ConRail securities.

Importantly, ConRail doesn't have to pay interest or dividends in cash in the early years-which frees all the money for building a better railroad.

We'll use the $2.1 billion (as well as more billions from ConRail revenues) to replace over 4,000,000 ties and over 700 miles of track each year for the next 10 years. We'll also repair freight cars and locomotivesand buy new ones. Repair bridges and tunnels. Install and modernize signalling and traffic control systems. This will mean fewer damage claims, faster service-increased earnings.

Unprofitable lines no longer. a burden

Some freight lines that cannot be run at a profit have been dropped. Other freight lines will be kept running if ConRail is compensated for the difference between revenues and the cost of operation.

The compensation would come from the U.S. Government and states that want to keep the lines operating.

ConRail will continue to operate commuter lines so long as the difference between revenues and costs is made up by local and Federal funds. If no one wants these lines to ume should bring us additional revenues of $3415 million by 1985.

On that basis, our objective is to start making a profit by 1980.

The best alternative

Many observers agree that if ConRail can't make a go of it, the only alternative will be nationalization.

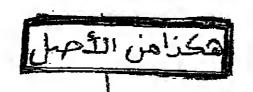

A bitter pill to swallow, as foreign tax payers can testify. Taxpayers in some count tries pay over $1 billion a year to cover the losses from railroads.

We'll do everything in our power not to let that happen. The last thing in me world. America needs is more taxes.

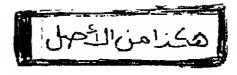

We aren't promising miracles. We can't offset decades of neglect overnight.

But we have got a better way to run a railroad.

Daniel P. Moynihan campaigned exuberantly in upstate New York on behelf of the Presidential candidacy of Senator Henry M. Jackson and tested his own potential as a candidate. Wherever he stopped he was urged to seek the Democratic nomination for Senator. He kept saying, "I'm here for Henry Jackson," and quickly changed the subject. But he also made the careful moves of a man thinking seriously about a campaign of his own. [1:5.]

David L. Yunich, the chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, said that subway and bus fares might have to rise to 65 cents next year if the M.T.A. did not find an equivalent for $125 million in Federal subsidies that the agency expects to lose. He said that the M.T.A. had counted on the Federal funds for the next fiscal year, but whether they would be available was doubtful because the Government bad indicated that it would no longer allow the city to convert Federal capital loans into operat-ing-expense cash. [1:8.]

Herbert Bienstock, the regional commissioner of the Federal Bureau of Labor Statis-tics, is optimistic about New York City's future. In an address to the New York Chapter of the American Jewish Congress, he said that while "propheta of doom" were chanting litanies over the city, "the migbly lively corpse" was on threshold of development and expansion. He said the develop-ment and expansion of tha city's fundamental economy - publishing, advertising, merchandising, art galleries, the theater and dance, health centers and services, and financial and business services-in the early 1950's would produce an upaurge as sharp as the city's decline as a' manufacturing center. [1:6-7.]

Federal investigators have found evidence widespread payments by meat packers and processors to Agriculture Department fond inspectors in the New York area-a corrupt practice that apparently has been going on for years. There was no indication that the payoffs had led to the approval or distribution of tainted or substandard meat. According to sources close to the investigation, the payments, in money or gifts, were made to overlook minor sanitary violatioos in packing and processing plants. [1:7-8.]

The Apostle of Optimism

BY TOM BUCKLEY

At 10:45 yesterday morn-ing, 30 minutes before the start of the service, a line had already formed outside the Marble Collegiate Church.

"Ob, yes," said John Lowe. "There will be a full house.

There always is." Mr. Lowe, wbo wore an emblematic white carnation in his lapel, is one of several in his lapel, is one of several members of the congregation who serve as "greeters," ex-tending the hand of fellow-ship to strangers out there on the sidewalk at Fifth Avenue and 29th Street.

The people come - and there were more than 1,000 yesterday — as they have since 1932, to hear the mes-sage of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, the apostle of "posi-tive thinking" in 24 books and thousands of sermons.

Dr. Peale has always empbasized optimism and ener-getic activity rather than gloomy contemplation. His church reflects this outlook. Bright lights, set up for the television cameras that record his sermons, banish shadows. The golden organ pipes, the cream paint and old varnished wood, the red damask pew cushions - all gleam.

Taking his place in one of the box pews, a visitor looked about him. The congregation seemed to be composed of solidly middle-class men and women, blacks and orientals as well as whites.

"That's what I think is so interesting about the church," said the woman sitting next to him. "It draws from all over the city, the country and the world, and the people are so inixed, socially and eco-nomically. We're a real conglomeration."

She laughed, this pleasant blond woman with bright blue eyes, and introduced herself as Georgina Delventhal of Englewood, N. J.

"Are you from out of town?" she asked courteous-ly, and the visitor sald that he wasn't, but that he had always been curious about that New York institution, Dr. Peale, and had decided to see him in action.

"Oh, he's a perfectly wonderful man," she said. "My husband and I have beeo worshiping here for 25 years, and our son, Bruce, was a student assistant to Dr. Peale last year. He's now teaching at the Chapin School in Princeton and coaching hock-ey at Lawrenceville. He went to Hamilton College, and you can't go there without learning something about hockey. "You know, when Bruce was in college it was a time of student rebellion," she went on. "I called Dr. Peale and asked him to come out to our house for dinner to talk to him. They went at it for four hours, and when it was over, I asked Dr. Peale, 'How do you' like being challenged by a whippersnapper like that?' He said. 'I like it fine. It shows be's thinking.' And then Bruce came to me and said, 'He's okay Mom. He knows where he's at.'"

As the organ struck up the As the organ struck up the prelude, the choir, 13 men and women robed in ma-genta, and Dr. Peale and his two assistants, wearing the somher black academic gowns of the Reformed faith, filed into the church. The three clergymen took their place on high-backed chairs, upholstered in purple velvet, splendidly carved in the Vic-torian style.

During the hymn-singing and the invocation and the prayers, conducted by bis assistants, Dr. Peale looked a bit grumpy. His lips curved downward at the coroers, be downward at the coroers, be moved his tongue around in-side his mouth, poking at the inside of his cheek, he fid-dled with bis gold wedding band, slipping it on and off his finger, for all the world like a carny old vaudevillian catching flies.

The Levit audit said the state facility opened with 11 buildings for 750 bed patients in November 1972 but was using only two buildings for 150, in view of the emphasis on community treatment.

He said efforts were under way to improve administrative weaknesses that had developed, and he estimated that $900,000 in potential revenues bad been lost because of delay from the time of the center's accreditation in February 1974 until its application in January 1975 for Medicaid and Medicare reimbursements.

Rise in Public Pension Costs Cited

Public-employee retirement systems in New York State currently cost nearly $200 for every man, woman and child, a rise of 74 percent from $115, in 1973, according to the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey Ioc. of New York State. The group, headed by John F. Van Cott, as chairman, said many survey members had complained that economy proposals by the Otto Kinzel commission on public-employee pensions were "too llberal," despite estimates that they would save taxpayers $2 billioo in the next 10 years.

The survey bas a proposal for an amendment to the State Constitution to eliminate state and city tax exemption for public-employee pensions, asserting that such exemptions cost the state more than $25 million last year.

3 Arrested at Soviet Mission

Three young men were arrested outside the Soviet Mission to the United Nations on East 67th Street on charges of harassment and disorderly conduct. Part of a group that pickets the mission every Sunday, two of the young men were from out of town and a third was from Brooklyn.

The police said one of the three, 21-year-old Saymon Grynsztajn of Brooklyn, had been charged with criminal mischief for allegedly kicking the door of a Russian diplo-mat's car. His companions, Mike Sternberg, 20, of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and Mark Scher, 18, of Stamford, Conn., allegedly rushed at the car and shouted obscenities at those inside it.

The building, designed by I. M. Pei and Partners of New York, has a glass-enclosed "space frame" that bisects the common diagooally, creatiog two triangular towers.

Estelle Aaiel Pollatschek, who celebrated her 100th birthday yesterday, sat quietly in a long black dress while friends and relatives made a fusa over her. But when it came to humor at the birthday party in her honor, ahe had tha last word.

"She doesn't look like 100 does she?" one of her nieces asked.

"Do I look like 102?" Mrs. Pollatschek replied quickly.

As old friends and family trickled into the Upper West Side apartment in which she has lived for the last 36 years, Mrs. Pollatschek sat in an armchair, reminiscing about old times in New York.

Trapped 4 Days in Blizzard

She described the great blizzard of 1888 and how she had been trapped in a train for four days outside Farmingdale, N. J. She spoke about daily afterooon carriage rides with her mother through Central Park and the excitement throughout the city the day Charles A. Lin-bergh returned from Paris. When asked how she could remember so many details, she replied: "Who's here to dispute me?" Estelle Pollatschek was born on April 4, 1876, in the home of her parents, Leopold and Pauline Asiel, at 117 East 59th Street. Her father was a successful importer of lace. ## The Fletchers: Family That Heard The Silent Thanks

By NAN ROBERTSON York Tim

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.-Estelle Fletcher's heart was pounding madly as she watched the television set. She saw the piece of paper being taken from the envelope. She turned to the interpreter, who spelled out on her fingers: "L-O-U-I-S-E." There was an explosion incide ber inside her.

Suddenly Louise Fletcher, who had just won an Academy Award as the hest actress for playing the monstrous nurse-keeper of the insane in "One Flew over the Cuckoo's Nest." was on stage in Los Angeles 2,000 miles away from her hometown here, thanking everyone. For millions, she then provided one of the most moving moments in the bis-tory of the awards.

Her voice breaking, she told her parents in sign language and in spoken words they could not hear: "I want to thank my mother and my father for teaching me to have a dream. You are seeing my dream come true." The Rev. Rohert Caners Fletcher and his wife — both totally deaf — were slunned. They had been taught it was weak to cry, but the surprise of seeing their daughter give hand signs to them was too much and her tears, Mrs. Fletcher said, "just jumped out." Mr. Fletcher said, "I wanied to run off and hide. I walked away when it was over. I felt I wanted to be alone."

"You Didn't Cry" Louise, 41, is the second of four Flatcher children, all of whom hear normally, who were brought up in the spaces and the silences of two big houses in Birmingham. "You didn't cry," said Georgianna Fletcher Thames, the youngest at 37. "There was no reason to cry if you fell and hurt your-self. There was no ne to hear you. self. There was no one to hear you. You couldn't explode and bave the sheer magnitude of your voice understood.'

The parents were interviewed in their Birmingbam home with Georgianna act-ing as interpreter; the other Fletcher children by telephone in Washington, Gloucester, Va., and Los Angeles.

Out of the isolation of all of these re-markable people came, as John, at 43 the oldest, "a hurning desire to succeed —to make my life count for some-thing." Like his father and grandfather hefore him, John is a minister.

Neither parent was born deaf. Robert Fletcher, now 76, was struck by lightoing at the age of 4, lay unconscious heard nothing even again. The cause of his wife's deafness from the age of 6 months is more mysterious — it was thought from scarlet fever, or heing dropped on the head by a servant.

Mr. Fletcher's father was a Baptist Mr. Fletcher's father was a Baptist minister in Arab, Ala., a poor, primitive, fundamentalist place, and he used his son frequently in his sermons around a circuit to illustrate the wrath and mercy of God. "I couldn't understand but people in the congregations would cry and they told me I would hear when I went to heaven," Mr. Fletcher said. said

Other children taunted him. They called him a dummy and a freak. He went on to the State School for the Deaf in Talladega; to Gallaudet College in Washington, where he fell in love with pretty Estelle Caldwell from Texas; and to the Philadelphia Seminary for Enisconal clarge

Texas; and to the Philadelphia Seminary for Episcopal clergy. Mr. Fletcher's voice today is very small, high and far away, but remark-ably distinct, the result of a continuous effort of will during more than 70 years of silence. His daughler Georgianna, ad-missions director for the Model Sec-ondary School for the Deaf on the Gallaudet campus, said even those who had heard far longer showed slippage after six months of deafness.

after six months of deafness. Both he and his wife, also 76, have vivid, alert faces reflecting every mood. Her voice is hollow and muffled, but not too distorted for her children to understand when she is beside them. Her lips shape and mirror the syllables as others speak: then she communicates through her expressions and rapid hand signals,

Sitting on the sofa in their living room, she crossed her arms over her heart to say that what she felt when Louise spoke straight to them on television was almost inexpressible.

The actress, her sisters and hrother kept the secret from their parents until the end. Two nights before the awards, in a two-hour, coast-to-coast telephone conversation, Georgianna bad described the signals for the words Louise wanted to use in the event she won the award and was given the chance to speak. Louise, who had been away from "all hut special family sign language for too many years," took meticulous noles. "When it finally happened, John and I were holding hands and weeping to-gether" in a triend's house in Wasning-ton, Georgianna said. It had taken many years before any of the children could sbow much emotion freely—tears of joy or those of burt or anger. "What good did it do?" John said. "There were other reasons-deaf people are sensitive; they read everything in your face. As the children of the deaf and of a minister, we kept ourselves under control." For 22 years, from his marriage in 1930, the father was constantly on the road, preaching to deaf congregations in eight Southero states. The mother, innocent of the world, coped alone much of the year, geiting Mr. Fletcher's soiled laundry by mail. They had children with a kind of "the Lord will provide" philosophy, but it was often terrifying, John was collicky and "cried all the time," but the pa-rents didn't know what was wrong At rents didn't know what was wrong. At night, his mother fastened the baby's night, his mother fastened the baby's diaper to ber with a large safety pirt so that when he kicked while crying, it would jolt her awake. It took months hefore they discovered they should burp him after feeding. When John's face puckered, they could not tell If he were walling for mile laws food as clear wailing for milk, love, food or sleep. As John grew and his sisters came Roberta, now 38 and a first-grade teacher married to Eddie Ray, an engineer and farmer in Virginia, was the toughest and most self-reliant. Louise was the most timid, the quietest. On her first day at school, she was sent home with a note to her father saying that since she was deaf, she should go to a special school. Her shyness had created that impression.

But the Fletchers were determined that their children would flourish in a hearing world. To make sure that they would speak correctly they were sent, one at a time, to Mrs. Fletcher's sister and other prosperous relatives in Bryan, Tex

Traditional Javanese Wedding Blouses

By RUTH ROBINSON

On the island of Java hand-em-hroidered kebayas are traditionally worn by women of Chinese descent as wedding hlouses and for ceremo-nial occasions. In this country the despite their long sleeves, he consid-ered appropriate for a trip to the altar, but they would add an exotic touch to lhe wardrohe.

And acquiring one needn't involve a voyage to Indonesia, just a visit to Lord & Taylor, where a collection of one-of-a-kind antique kebayas will be available April 10 to fit sizes 4 to 10. Prices, from $65 to $240, seem high until one considers these items are of heirloom quality. It was not unusual for a woman to spend as long as three months on a single hlouse, working intricate open-work patteros in fine stitches, and, for strength as well as beauty, hemstitching each seam by hand.

Most of the kehayas are white, though there are neutrals and pasiels as well.

Javanese women faslen their kehayas with two or three pins and wear them with camisole and sarong. Americans might use them as jackets over evening dresses or halters and skirts tied at the waist over pants or next to nothing, fastened with a broach.

Five Corners, a new houtique at Henri Bendel, deals in home and travel accessories made of fresh cot-ton voile from Thailand. The flour pillows, exercise rolls, hlanket covers, laundry bags, lingerie cases, jewelry rolls and so on, all made in Bangkok with intricate detailing, come in mix-and-match prints de signed by Jackie Ayers.

Pillow cases like so many things in the collection are available in both plain and quilted versions. Prices on stock items go from $15-for shoe hags to $225 for twin quilts.

Five weeks ago at Hialeah, with muscular Braulio Baeza trying to restrain him, he won the fastest Flamingo Stakes ever run hy 11 lengths. Yesterday, humoring his rider, he took a jaunt around Gulfstream's gaudy bridle path some three lengths ahead of a field that never

When I put him in an allowance back at Belmont he was probably one major work short of being ready, so I'm to blame."

Thus with a shade more luck, the colt could be unbeaten now. As it is, he is only a length and a quarter away from 11 straight.

LeRoy's Unsqueezed Lemon

Derby Day at tradition-steeped Gulfstream is traditionally characterized by an austere and stately dignity featuring acrobatic water skiers and a paddle-wheeler oo the infield lake, a guy harnessed to a kite who spars so high spectators get nosebleed, here and there a rock band cum canary, and at least one race of tigers, ostriches, elephants or other fauna not registered in the stud hook when Queen Anne was First Lady of the Turf. This year South American javelinas, or wild boars, competed in a non-betting exhibition. At a time when the future of class racing in Florida is in doubt, this proof that pigs race at Gulfstream struck some as unnecessary.

Although Honest Pleasure's campaign as a 3-year-old is barely begun, horsemen bold him in such respect that only five owners put up the $2,200 it cost to oppose him, and the chances are four of them were going for second money of $30,480. The exception was Pinky Henderson, the tall and outspoken horseperson who trains Proud Birdie.

Pinky said Proud Birdie had been furious all week about losing the Fountain of Youth Stakes by a head last Saturday, and would be out for revenge. She said he would not settle willingly for anything less than $91,440 for first place, and she turned out to be right. Proud Birdia settled unwillingly for third money of $15,240 after using himself up chasing Honest Pleasure for a mile. Undiscouraged, Pinky said they would ship to Kentucky and resume the chase there.

Gulfstream paid off clear back to fifth place-fourth money was $10,668 and fifth $4.572-so the only steed that didn't bring back a profit was Controller Ike, who stumbled at the start. The generosity of this racetrack passes understanding.

Impetuous in the Flamingo, Honest Pleasure pleased bis trainer this time with a relaxed race that enabled Baeza to rate him on the pace. Heredity gave the colt speed. Jolley is teaching him patience. He will improve. "He still looks a little heavy to me," a horseman said. "LeRoy hasn't squeezed the lemon yet" .

Army vs. Brooklyn College Football: A $151.94 Bill

By PAUL L. MONTGOMERY Last fall, the Brooklyn Col-lege football team was invited to Puerto Rico to play in the Coco bowl and returned to Flatbush with a 50-12 victory over Inter-American University, a silver trophy and a civic reception at Borough Hall.

Now, it turns out, there was a less happy result of the Kingsmeo's shoestring season — a $151.94 bil for damages allegedly dooe by the team during its stay at an Army barracks outside

San Juan. "I feel it necessary to inform you that I am sorry that your team came here to Fort Buchanan," said Col. Josiah A. Wallace Jr., com-mander of the base, io a letter to John W. Kneller, president of the college. "I cannot understand how an institution like Brooklyn College presumably dedicated to the task of building up better citizens and good leaders can produce individuals like you have on your football team." The colonel closed: "You can be assured that neither Brooklyn College nor any member of your football conference will be invited back to play or stay at Fort Bu-cbanan."

Colooel Wallace said that in its three-day stay in the barracks the team had "de-stroyed" sheets, pillows and mattresses, burned clothing in an oven, "littered garbage throughout the area" and kept neighboring families awake with "a continuing stream of obscenites and profacity until after 3 clock profamity until after 3 o'clock in the morning."

Dr. Charles Tobey, the Brooklyn College athletic director, said the charges were "a tremendous exaggeration" and "blatantly untrue," made by "an uptight colonel we never saw when we were trash barrels for the barracks without result. He acknowl-

"I wanted a nice round number, you know," he said.

The Flames sandwiched two goals in the first period and three goals in the final period around a soft middle session in which the Islanders tied the score with their only goals of the game.

Another Tingler

Skating well and surrounding the puck, the Flames forced another in the series of tight-played games be-tween the teams this season. Four previous games resulted in ties. Dan Bouchard, the goalie who played all six games for Atlaota, again defied the Islander shooters.

Resch, preparing for the playoffs, surrendered two goals early in the game. Hilliard Graves scored unassisted after taking the puck from Garry Howatt behind the Islander net and curling it between Resch'a pads. Then Larry Romanchych made a series of sharp turns to shake off Ed Westfall and Gerry Hart and scored a power-play goal.

The Islanders rallied in the secood period on a goal by Bryan Trottier from a sheer angle aod on Lorne Henning's fourth short-banded goal of the season.

TAMPA, Fla., April 4-The Mets ended their shortened spring stay on Florida's East Coast today by trimming the Coast today by trining the World Series champion Cin-cinnati Reds, 10-4, in a game that served to prepare Tom Seaver for next Friday's opening game of the season at Shea Stadium.

Seaver, still unsigned and scheduled for another negoti-ating session tomorrow, did not pitch the seven innings both he and Manager Joe Frazier expected. Seaver retired after four innings but declared himself fit for the opener. "1 threw 85 pitches, which is the equivalent of working seven innings," be said. "I had a little problem with the calf in my right leg while running the bases, and since I had thrown the necessary pitches, I left after four innings."

Seaver pulled a muscle in his right calf running on soft grass last Tbursday. He said it botbered him while running the bases but not on the niound. "I'm sure I wall be able to go seven innings next Friday." he said.

Seaver will meet with the Mets' board chairman, M. Donald Grant, in Fort Lauderdale tomorrow afternoon after the club arrives there for a

This is it. Thunder and lightning from Volkswagen. Scirocco for 1976. Like the desert wind it's named after, this car has taken people by storm. A 1.6liter overhead-cam engine means 0 to 50 In a blistering 7.5 seconds. Plus a free hatchback, front-wheel drive and rack-and-pinion steering. Yet, for all its power and performance, the EPA estimated that a standard shift Scirocco got 39 highway miles per gallon and 25 in the city. Your actual mileage may vary depending on driving habits, car condition and optional equipment. Power plus performance. That is the 2+2 Scirocco for 1976. Styled by the Italian master Giugiaro; this is an automobile so lean of line, so sleek of look that, even if it's standing still, it will take you by storm.

Bicentennial Barge in Financial Fog

By GRACE GLUECK

Even before its launching, the Bicentennial Barge, a $1.5 million historical thowboat tbat will ply New York State's waterways this sum-mer, has run into some heavy weather.

Nearly sunk last month when state legislators, per-turbed by its cost overrun. refused to allot requested funds for the fiscal year 1976-77. the barge was rescued after pleas by the state's Bieeotennial Commission. For the current fiscal year it has heen allotted $926.000 from the state budget in addition to $625,000 granted during the preceding year for its purchase and re-habilitstion.

Committee.

But some local sponsors are complaining, not only over the cost of the vessel itself but also over the price they will have to pay when it docks. Indeed, some prospective host organizations in metropolitan areas are so worried about financial arrangements that specific sites are still under negotiation. even though the barge will start its four carly in June. "It is simply not believable that $1.5 million of tax levy monies are required to con-struct and operate a sixmonth traveling exhibition." Donald Silverman, program chairman of the Staten Island Council on the Arts and chairman of the Staten Island Barge Festival, wrote recently to State Senztor John J. Marchi, a barge backer.

Payments Required

Mr. Silverman said that sponsors at each of the barge's 32 stops would be required to pay for such arrangements as liability insurance, clectrical power, security water and sanitary facilities. a tirsr-aid tent, safely fencing, a public-address system, lighting and hotel rooms for the barge's staff.

In addition, he noted, all host sites were expected to tie in by producing and on-shore festival consistent with state Bicentennial Commission guidelines, which require such amenities as shaded seating, a performing stage. lighting, transportation to lighting, transportation to area events, performances, games, children's activities and food concessions. To help pay for such ac-tivities, the state commis-sion has proposed "formula grants"—an initial $500 to each local sponsor, plus $400 a day for each day the barge is on site But many sponis on site. But many sponsurs tind the proposal woe-fully inadequate. "Visitors to a $1.5 million state barge exhibit rightfully should ex-pect quality at every level," Mr. Silverman wrote, adding that the proposed grants would "hardly cover the cost any festival of substance. He suggested that $200,000. or 13 percent, of the barge's total budget be used to pro-vide $6,250 for programming at each festival site. He has not yet received a reply from Seoator Marchi, who is head of the Senate Finance

For example, at one metropolitan host site, Manhat-tan's South Street Seaport Museum, negotiations are still in progress for the barge to make its first call around June 4. Officials say that $10,000 to $12,000 worth of work would be required, in-cluding a "minimum" of $4,500 for pier adjustments to accommodate the vessel, which is 250 feet long aod through. 39 feet wide.

"We want the barge, but we don't have funds for it," says Richard Buford, the museum's president. "The grants proposed by the com-mission wouldn't possibly cover the cost of what we have to do." The museum had been negotiating with the commis-sion for months, Mr. Buford said, adding that "it should be well within the resources of the state" to pay local sites adequately. "We're going to try to have a summer festival whether the barge is here or not. We want to be cooperative, but it's un-reasonable to expect us to go out and raise funds for it on top of all the other demands for our resources." On the other hand, the ospect of the barge's visits has delighted a number of smaller upstate communities, who regard it as the focal point of their Bicentennial cclebrations. Many of them have gone all out to raise funds and solicit volunteer help for festivities. In Medina, for example, a community of about 7,000 in upstate opple country on the Eric Canal, the Rev. H. Burton Entrekin, a Baptist minister who is head of the Medice Biouthenici Commist Medina Bicentennial Commission, sold that the group was hoping to sell 5,000 "apple hadges," Bicentennial insignia boasting a red apple on a blue striped ribhon. for $1. "We dldn't apply for state aid or Federal funds or any-thing," he said. "I believe in doing what you can be used doing what you can for your-

Souvenir Brochures Meanwhile, in Albany, Philip Johnson, project director for the barge, conceded that the South Street Seaport site and others were still tentotive because of funding problems. 'We realize that many communities have very limited resources," he said. And he stressed that a major attempt to provide funding for community involvement with the barge had fallen The attempt was to provide each community with 20,000 free souvenir brochures that could be sold for "around $1, thus underwriting their fes-tival expenses," he said. But the estimated printing cost of $90,000 for the commission were eliminated by the state's hudget division, he said. The commission was also where the barge was offered to a community they saw thecontract and had the option of not taking it. Our require-ments were established not to hassle the communities but to make sure that our local bases were covered. The barge, which formerly carried railroad cars, is still being outfitted at the Brew-er's Drydock Company on Staten Island. Its exhibitions, not yet installed will be the not yet installed, will tell the story of New York in the Revolutionary period, according to Mr. Johnson, by means of artifacts, slides, films, models and a diorama.

To fund the barge's reliabilitation last year the Legis-lature carved $625,000 out of the budget for the New York State Council on the Arts. This year, two funding requests, one for $650,000 from the state's deficiency budget, and another for $276,000 for programming, from the regular budger, were made by the Bicenten-nial Commission. The $650,-000 request, included a large outlose for sin conditioning outlay for air conditioning. according to a source close to the commission, that was in the initial budget and was at first denied by the Legislature.

"They were furious over the escalating cost." Mr. Johnson said, "but having built the bottom of the barge, as it were, they were too emharrassed not to build the rest of it." So the money was finally voted in out of the regular state budget." One question asked by many observers is what will hecome of the barge when its tour is over after about six months. Mr. Johnson said that "several partics" had already expressed interest in it. Meanwhile, Covernor

Carey has named Joan K. Davidson, chairman of the New York State Council on the Arts, to act as his "per-sonal representative." not in conjunction with the council, to oversee the barge's com-pletion and to "assess and plan for a permanent use of the targe."

Barzin Lays Down Baton, Gloomy on Music Scene

By RAYMOND ERICSON

"The cultural explosion of the past three decades is over, and today cultural organizations are struggling to kccp their status quo. What is needed is more education in the arts, if they are not to take second place to timepassing activities when people arrive at a 30-hour work week in the near future. Otherwise people will become drooling morons in front of TV sets

This is the opinion of Leon Barzin, who at the age of 75 can look back on a lifetime of educating musicians. Tomorrow he will conduct his last concert with the National Orchestral Association, a training ensemble that he has headed for most of its 46 years of existence. If he is proud of what he has accomplished - players trained in his orchestra can be found in symphonies throughout America and even abroadhe takes a dim view of the American musical scene.

Stress on Education

"Nobody is really doing anything for educating the public in music," he said in an interview the other day. It's all right for the National Endowment for the Arts to support the big insti-tutions like the Metropolitan Opera and the sympbony orchestras, but to me it's just a glamorous W.P.A." (This was a reference to the Works Progress Administration. which supported arts projects during the 1930's Depression, giving work to needy artists.) "The N.E.A. needs to develop pilot pro-grams toward education for the future, and it can take uo to 10 years to do this.

"There are not enough places for musicians to get practical experience. When I ist." For the last six years, Mr. Barzin has been particularly concerned about training conductors, and he has headed just such a project at the National Orchestral Association. Commenting on this, he pointed out that some notable conductors came out of the orchestra.

he said, "but they still have

One of the good things that I think Pierre Boulez did was to take the Philharmonic out of Fisher Hall and move sections of it into small halls for special concerts. There was contact between players and listeners.' Mr. Barzin would like to see the association imitated because it is independent of any other organization-it does not belong to a school or another orchestra. It operates now through the will of the late Mrs. Melbert B. Cary Jr., who had been a major supporter of it during her life. It is free to pick its

Advertising Unpaid Work on New Products

By PHILIP H. DOUGHERTY Although it is not rare for advertisers to ask agencies to work on new-product assignments without compen-sation, the situation, in these days of declining profit margins, has apparently become serious enough to rate a posi-tion paper from the American Association of Advertising Agencies.

Agencies. The association, whose members place the over-whething majority of nation-al advertising in this country, feels moved to publish a position paper every couple of years. The new one (the first on this subejct) will be distributed to members and distributed to members and to advertisers through the Association of National Advertisers. The paper is in the form of a 14-page booklet called "New Product Advertising: Managing the Risks and Costs." It could be subtitled "You don't get nothin' for nothing'."

New products, despite their high failure rate, are the lifeblood of American business, and corporations must take such risks or flounder. The trouble is that ad agen-cies, which really can't afford to, take on new-product assignments on speculation. Why? To get a foot in the door of a big advertiser is one reason. Fear of alieneting e major client is another. It is common for manufacturers to ask their agencies with large lucrative pieces of going business to take on new-product work, without payment, as well. Since this additional busi-

Since this additional busi-ness does not bring in any immediete return, many agen-cies will not assign top tal-ent to it. This may be one reason that the percentage of member agencies working on new product assignments dropped from 70 percent in 1967 to 58 percent in 1970. There was a slight increase to 61 percent by 1974.

What advertisers have apparently been doing is taking their new product assign-ments to small firms that specialize in this area, and they don't work for nothing. For an agency to do its best for a new product, it should be in on the develop-ment as early as possible, which makes its manpower expenses all the higher. The position paper — written by William R. Hesse, former president of Benton & Bowles and now a senior vice presi-dent of the association—cites some of the costs as they were tabulated several years ago by one agency. Its lowest total cost for a single new product was $40.-

Restoring Circulation One of the things that Cleon T. from 450,000 to 300,000, but he expects to be back up to the higher figure by the end of this year. His subscription solicitation has been emi-nently successful, be reports. He has already, as promised, taken the maga-zine from six copies a year to 12, and he will be raising the advertising rate base to 400,000 with the June issue. Mr. Knapp goes after sub-scribers through direct-mail and print advertising. Acand print advertising. Ac-cording to bim, he gets an 8 percent return on direct

8 percent return on direct mail. A high figure indeed. The print advertising runs in Heuse and Garden, House Beautiful, The New York Times Book Review, Parade, Vogue, Cosmopolitan and Gentleman's Quarterly. Mr. Knapp calculates that his advertising cost per sub-scription runs between $3.50. and $4.50 from measure ads and $4.50 from magazine ads and between $7 and $8 from and between $7 and $8 from direct mail. Rather bigb for a magazine with a $7.95 an-nual subscription rate, you say. But you have to know that publishers expect to make their money on renew-als. Bon Appétit'a are run-ning at 70 to 75 percent, Mr. Knapp says.

The 5-cylinder Mercedes-Benz 300D. Another engineering milestone that has quietly inspired a change in traditional automotive design.

The Mercedes-Benz 300D has quietly changed the rules of the automobile game. This 5-cylinder Diesel automobile is an engineering milestone that offers a unique combination of performance, luxury, economy and quality.

In fact, the Mercedes-Benz 300D has inspired new thinking in automotive design. It is the most powerful, the most responsive and the swiftest Diesel passenger car ever sold.

For other manufacturers, a car with the myriad blessings of the 300D is somewhere far down the road. The 300D is here now. With it. Mercedes-Benzunderscores its reputation for establishing new standards.

Unique in all the world

Four decades ago, Mercedes-Benz demonstrated the benefits of Diesel power. Now, the 5-cylinder engine in the 300D widely expands that list. It banishes forever the image of the Diesel as a rough, noisy workhorse. The 300D is indeed a thoroughbred.

and equipment of your automobile. But according to estimates published by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency Ihighway driving: 28 mpg: ciry driving: 22 mpg), the 20.6-gallon fuel supply of the 300D should have no trouble letting it cruise 500 highway miles between fill-ups.

Even if all your driving were in town, your 300D should stop-and-go more than 400 miles on a single tank. Compare that to your present car.

No tune-ups-ever

When you do stop for fuel, a 300D offers several more pleasant surprises. First, Diesel fuel is usually cheaper than even regular gasoline. Countrywide, the difference averages 4¢-7¢ per gallon less. Second, Diesel fuel is plentiful. Thousands and thousands of stations sell it all across America. Third, since Diesel fuel has more energy per gallon than gasoline, every gallon not only costs you less, ir takes you farther. Another plus: With a 300D you can happily forget about that expensive automotive custom known as the conventional tune-up. Because it has no sparkplugs, points, distributor, condenser or carburetor. the Mercedes-Benz 300D never, ever needs one.

Hears of the 300D: Power assembly from the world's only 5-cylinder automobile.

The complete sedan

When you compare it to most full-sized sedans, the 300D is a materials miser. It is not as big, not as heavy and not as thirsty. But it is every bit as practical and comfortable.

In fact, the 300D is a full 5-passenger sedan. Besides its generous interior, its trunk boasts a spacious 17.5 cubic feet of volume. On top of that, the 300D abounds with countless examples of innovative-Mercedes-Benz safery engineering.

The 300D does lack one thing. A lengthy option list. The reason is its complete array of standard equipment. Included are: Power-assisted steering and brakes, automatic transmission, air conditioning, electric windows, cruise control, central locking sys-

Sommer Says It Exceeded Its Authority on Dubious Corporate Payments

By ROBERT D. HERSHEY Jr. Spedal to The New York Thnes

WASHINGTON, April 4smoldering argument within the Securities and Exchange Commission flared up publicly over the weekend as a departing commissioner charged that the agency had exceeded its au-thority in handling the question of dubious corporate payments and had "failed terribly" in its responsibility by refusing to set standards of cooduct.

The result, according to A. A Sommer Jr., has been to seriously compromise the commis-sion's credibility and profes ional standing.

Abacus Is Still Handy, Bank of China Finds

By ROSS H. MUNRO

¿ The Globe and Mall, Toronto TIENTSIN, China-Any Westerner who needs a reminder of the changes wrought in his everyday life by computers would do well to wander into one of the bigger branches of the Bank of China. In a huge, central room he will see long, double rows of desks and, flanking them, scores of men and womeo leafing through pile upon pile of paper and bending over abacuses and old-fashioned mechanical adding machines. In China's drive for agricultural and industrial modemization, many goals have a higher priority than the automation of clerical work. At a branch of the Bank of China In downtown Tientsin, automation is off to a slow and fitful start partly because the Chinase-made electronic calculators provided to the bank don't do the job.

"In some calculations we still use the abacus." said Wu Yuan-chuan, a self-assured bank executive whose English was good coough for him to interject occasionally with his own translation of what he had just said. "We also use some electronic calculators. We have some Chinese-made electronic calculators, but the ones being used are from Japan." No details on what was wrong with the Chinese calculators were forthcoming, but Mr. Wu bastened to add that the bank would use its Chinesemade calculators in the future.

The hanking system could be in danger of being swamped by old fashioned paper work because recent re-ports in China's press indicate a rapid expansion is taking place in individual savings, retail sales and do-mestic commerce in general. This bank in Tientsin deals mainly in international transactions, facilitating imports and exports in the highly industrialized Tientsin area. Mr. Wu said that "our work has been developing fast"

INVENTORIES EXPANDING

Slight Progress is Achieved Toward Curbing Inflation and High Unemployment

By CLYDE H. FARNSWORTH

Special to The Star York Tubes PARIS, April 4-Despite the currency troubles that contine to plague Western Europe. economic activity is picking up even faster than government officials predicted several months ago, and some slight progress is beiog made in curbing unusually high unemloyment and inflation.

Economists see demand for consumer goods powering the wing out of recession, which has been particularly marked in France and West Germany and which now promises to ac-celerate in Britain as depleted nventories are rebuilt. The money in consumers' hanos has come from spending in government reflation programs. some tax deferrals and robates and relatively high unemployment compensation. "People are spending a little more freely." says a Paris-based cconomist for a major bank, "and this is having its cffect on production of autos aod household appliances."

Auto Production

Some auto manufacturers in France and Germany arc headd toward capacity production, and executives in the long-de-pressed sleel industry have lately been predictiog better times.

The strong husiness upswing in the United States is helping Europeans, economists the note, by widening the market for European exports. In Germany an official fore-cast of 5 percent economic growth this year may be revised to 6 percent, and in France 6 percent may be nudged up to 7 percent, finance ministry of-ficials of the two countries indicate.

"Several sectors have already reached—and in some cases surpassed—their best levels of 1974," said Finance Minister Jean-Pierre Fourcade of France."

An unusually frank assess ment of the situation was auhlished last September by a Government institution, the French Bank for Foreign Trade. poratioo and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, a subsidiary of the Lykes-Youngstown Corporation. A recent study found 24,500 of the valley's resideots emeconomists ployed by the steel companies (abont 15 percent of total employment), with an additional 10,000 to 25,000 jobssuch as those at the Steel Strapping Company in Warren -dependent on steel.

Aging Equipment a Threat Yet, as an early steel center with mills dating from 1910 still in use, the industry here is threatened not only by its pollution but also by its aging, inefficient equipment. As many as 10,600 jobs have been lost in the last 20 years because of production shifts to oewer facilities elsewbere. More jobs are in jeopardy.

There jons are in jeoparay. There is a widely support-ed plan to clean up the air, which is expected to cost $158 million, but the three ateel companies balked at spending $148 million more for water controls and threatened to close down. "When these plants were built," observed Carl J. Lucas, vice president of engineering at Youngstown Sheet and Tube, "the concern was just to get the water away from the plants, not to treat it. The cost of retrofitting conrols to aging plants is enormous." Convinced that the companies' threats were serious, Mr. Sullivan of the development agency organized a series of meetings that brought together the various factions over a six-year period and finally derailed the E.P.A.

Another memorable mo-ment in the crusade came two years ago at an E.P.A. hearing at the oow-defunct Voyager Inn in downtown Youngstown Dibile as and Voyager Inn in downtown Youngstown. While an end-less line of local public offi-cials and other witnesses paraded before the packed meeting room, all of them condemning the proposed re-quirements, 500 steelworkers marched outside carrying signs that read, "We want jobs, not fisb" and "Steel, not eet." eeL'

"I am no apologist for big steel. They have for too long used a public stream as a private sewer, and no one has that right," testified the Rev. Edward Stanton, co-pastor of the Sacred Heart Church in Youngstown and a member of the development agency's board.

"But steel has acknowl-edged their obligation to our physical environment and begun to clean it up, "Rather Stanto continued: "Now it is for the regulatory sgen-cies to recognize their obligation to our social environment and replace bureaucratic arbitrarioess with reason and compassion."

Meeting With Train

Three months later the leaders of the Youngstown movement, including the chairmen of the three companies, the mayors of the three cities and the district's Representative in Congress, gathered in the Capitol Hill office of Robert Taft Jr., the 'state's Republican Scoator, to talk with the E.P.A. Administrator, Russell Train, and his assistant.

"That was our big break," Mr. Sullivan recalled. "For the first time, E.P.A. acknowledged that their regulations were too stringent." At E.P.A., Paul Brands, deputy assistant administra-tor for planning and evalua-tion, agreed that the regional development agency had served an important purpose. "The local people, including the industry people, with Bill Sullivan's group, did an effec-tive job of alerting us to the potential econ there," Mr. Bra

So Senate members, Re-publicans as well as Democrats, give Senator Ohren-stein high marks for having found a role for the Democratic conference.

The 25 Senate Democrats are a diverse group, including such members as James D. Griffin of Bufialo, who runs with Conservative Party en-dorsement, and Israel Ruiz Jr., a 32-year-old native of Puerto Ricn whn represents the South Bronx.

Members say that Senator Obrenstein, a liberal from Manhattan's West Side, has heen ahle to hold the group together principally by making sure that everyone has access to that precious and nften scarce commodity here information.

"His basic technique is to give it to us straight," one said the other day. "He discloses everything. He's available, and that means an awful lot."

Senator Ohrenstein's credibility with his members was put in its toughest test last week in his decision to sustain Mr. Carey's veto of the education-aid formula. As-semblymen from the Sena-tors' home districts rushed to the Senate floor to be-seech them to override the veto. But the Democrats atood firm because, members said later, they believed Senator Ohrenstein's analysis that the veto had been cor-

The Democratic Assembly leadership - which on the same night was overriding the Stavisky bill veto-was furious with Secator Ohrenstein, accusing him nf a transparent effort to put the Governor in his debt. Calcu-lated or not, it is a debt the Governor acknowledges. The next day, while he was in Washington for Senate Committee testimony, Mr. Carey broke away and called a number of startled Senate Democrats to thank them for their help-which he needs even more urgently this week if the Senate is to sustain his veto of the Stavisky bill. ter of Manhattan:

signed the bill into law. The only trouble is, the law could cost the state a lot of money-$250 million a year is the current estimate so last week the Legislature did wbat it has done every year since 1971. It put off the ef-fective date of the law for still another year, until April 1. 1977. Since there is absolutely no chance that the Legislature will ever allow the law to take effect, a logical question is why the two houses dn not simply vote to repeal it in-stead of waiting until the last minute to give the state a yearly reprieve. The answer, in legislative terms, is just as logical: What would the people back bome think if the Legislature repealed e local leaders in the Assembly and the Senate. Curreotly 163 legislators received the extra stipends, ranging from $1,000 to $21,000, for committee work and other activities.

Such a bill "would not appear to have much of a future," in the words of one leadership aide. But that does not mean that the leadership is distressed about the bill's introduction. The 1S fresh-men, many from marginal districts where their re-elec-tion chances are in doubt, will at least be able to say they tried to curb the notori-ous luiu's, a subject many legislators feel has been mis-represented hy most of the press and misunderstood by most of the people.

The fiscal crisis has wrought many changes, not the least of them changes in personality. Alexandra Zetlin, Governor Carey's Johbyist in the As-sembly whose unruffled good cheer is appreciated even by legislators who denounce the Governor, says that the constant crisis atmosphere here has made other crises in ber

However, Maremont officials say if their gun is supplied as they recommend, with an extra bolt assembly and other replacement parts, its cost is slightly higher, about $900. Senator Edmund S. Muskie of Maine asked the General Accounting Office to monitor the Army's tests. James Case. aide to the Democratic Senator who has been following the cootroversy, cootend-ed that the report suggested that the way the tests rod standards were d'signed were biased in favor of the Belgian weapoo.

Cites Standards

Mr. Case contended that the cost of ammunitioo for the life span of both weapons had been added on to mak the cost differential seem less and that the original standards called for a relatively small rate of fire according to current Army doc-trice, but that the Belgian gun's high rate of fire was deemed acceptable and that the American manufacturer's maintenance suggestions had not been followed. Berge Tomasian, the vice a doubling of president aod general manager of Maremoot, contended that bis guns began to misfire earlier because the tests did not allow for switching the entire bolt assembly after 15,000 rounds as he recommeoded, and called instead for the repair of individual parts, a difficult field opera->

SHOWS AT APOLLO ARE TAPED FOR TV

Six 90-Minute Specials on Harlem Showplace Set to Begin in June

By C. GERALD FRASER It ended with a bang. Onstage at Harlem's Apollo Theater, the drummer pounded away, yet he was barely audible. The Mighty Clouds of Joy, a gospel-rhythm and blucs quartet, shouted into; the microphones.

And dozens of members of the audience, fulfilling their traditional role as the Apollo's inpaid performers, took to the stage and were cutting a number of gospel steps, and some rhythmically shook and beat a tambourine. The general audience clapped, stomped and cheered.

Thus concluded two days of taping forthcoming television specials, tentatively titled "The Apollo Presents."

Group W Productions, part of the Westinghouse Broadcasting Company, a production company called Dimensions Unlimited and Perin Film Enterprises have joined to put together six 90-minute television specials originating in the liarlem showplace.

"We plan to convey the magic and excitement that is Apollo. The specials will be a mixture of the hottest conten. porary performers and many of porary performers and many of the great stars who have ap-peared on the Apollo stage over the years, some of them com-ing out of retirement to be on the programs." said David Salzman, charman and chief executive of Group W Produc-tions

Out of Retirement

One of those coming out of retirement for an Apollo encore was Cab Calloway, now 68 years old. His career as a singer and bandleader practically par-alieled Harlom's existence as the black cntertainment center. Mr. Calloway did his "Minnie" the Mnocher" and hi-de-hi-de-hi-de-ho bit as well as some ballads and was loudly applaude - by an audience that included nany too young to have been alive when he was in his hevday.

Another favorite with Apollo oldtimers was the Copasetics, a "Rose Mary Woods came into the solarium a few minutes ahead of Nixon. 'Your father has decided to resign,' she said, looking at the President's two daughters.

David had been telling Julie for days it would all be over soon. Now she heard it, stunned, relieved, and consumed with sadness and a sense of unfairness.

The President stepped into the room. 'We're going back to California,' he said, and indicated that there would be no discussion.

His daughters broke down. Mrs. Nixon did not cry.

There was a knock on the door, and photographer Ollie Atkins came in. Ziegler had instructed him that morning to photograph absolutely everything. 'Ollie,' Mrs. Nixon said, 'we're always glad to see you, but I don't think we need any pictures now.' Oh, come on, Ollie, the President said. Take a few shots?

The President directed everyone to stand between a bookcase and the vellow print drapes. The daughters were weeping and Atkins had to take shot after shot to get a picture with everyone smiling.

The family stood in a line, their arms about each other or holding hands. Atkins finally thought he had some shots with no one crying. But as he backed out the doorway, still snapping, Julie and the President fell weeping into each other's arms."

Lester; the Barnett Sisters: Taj Mahal: Stephanie Mills of "The Wiz," George Kirby and Harold Melvin and the Blue Notes were also taped.

The taping sessions will be edited down to two 90-minute specials to be hroadcast in June. Four more shows will be produced later this year. Directing production of the specials is Stan Lathan, a film maker whose credits include Flip Wilson and Muhammad Ali specials, "Sanford and Son," "That's My Mama," "Sesame Street" and "Soul."

Although the list of perform-ers scheduled for the specials includes many who got their break there during the theater's 42 years, or performers who worked there frequently, many others — especially the young-er ones---came to fame through other routes.

"We're trying to put together a variety show with every major name in this business that we can find, pieces of Broadway shows that are applicable to the Apollo, some oldies and some major names." said Robert Schiffman, owner of the theater.

"We're trying to include, in traditional television style, the legend of the Apollo. This is." Mr. Schiffman said, "a big shot for the Apollo."

Situation at Theater

The Apollo, to continue as a theater, needs such a "shot." Mr. Schiffman has said previously that the most popular contemporary entertainers are generally too expensive for the Apollo. They are, he said, able to earn in one night at Madison Square Garden, Lincoln Center or the Nassau Coliseum what they would get paid for a week at the Apollo. At the same time, he said Harlemites seem not to want to hear the lesser known entertainers that the Apollo could afford. Thus the theater is now oren on an irregular basis. Fred Duke is president of the six year old co-producing com-Mr. Dukes said he went to the Dimensions Unlimited, Apollo as a youngster. "We want - with these series of specials-to try to capture the feel of this audience and how differently the performers persaid.
